by

FRANCIS DURBRIDGE

Relationships within a family have always been the stuff of drama, providing as they do, speculation, surprise and intrigue. Francis Durbridge has always handled the elements in a masterly fashion in his many plots which have kept audiences interested and alert for decades.

In 'Suddenly at Home' the family is certainly the centre of interest, a wealthy wife, a hardworking husband, a supportive sister, a former suitor, an actress friend and an 'Au Pair' who can turn her head to anything.

These human ingredients provide a dramatic cocktail when stirred and shaken and when the clues to a surprising murder are unravelled, a finger is finally pointed in the right direction.
